

Continue

Marshal telugu movie online. Marshal movie online watch hindi dubbed. Marshal hindi movie online. Marshal movie online watch. Mersal movie online. Marshland movie online. Marshal south hindi movie online. Marshal movie online.

Skip to main content 2h 21m2015X-RayHDRUHDPG-13 Rental includes 30 days to start watching this video and 48 hours to finish after it starts. Watch TrailerAdd to Watchlist Supporting Actors Jeff Daniels, Michael Pia, Kate Mara, Sean Bean, Sebastian Stan, more... [Axel Henney, Chiwetel EjioforProduced by Simon Kinberg, Ridley Scott, Michael Schaeffer, Aditya Sood, Mark Huffam 20th Century Studio Rating Fox PG-13 (Highly Recommended for Parents) Did people feel they were helpful in the top reviews above? Mr. FloaterViewed in USA December 10, 2020 Great story with 14 moral lessons from the left end. Verified Purchase Another review reviews the basic story of this movie. Let's look at the subtext of the movie. If you look beyond the main story, you'll find 14 subversive far-left moral lessons. We can learn a lot from following these moral lessons. Warning: spoilers follow." This is followed by 14 numbered prompts, each targeting a perceived "anti-Christian" or "anti-American" aspect of the actors, dialogue, or setting (such as London). Each gives an hour/minute/second. (e.g. 1 :38:14) from the movie to see for yourself. Here are 3 examples: "1:38:14 Watney discusses the 1967 United Nations Outer Space Treaty, in which member governments agreed never to claim sovereignty, alien countries. Two years later, in 1969, Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin planted an American flag on the moon and permanently declared it as American soil because America is God's country, notSkip to main content 2h 21m2015X-RayHDRUHDPG-13Rental includes 30 days to start viewing and 48 hours to end once it starts. Play TrailerAdd to ViewSupporting ActorsJeff Daniels, Michael Peña, Kate Mara, Sean Bean, Sebastian Stan, More... Axel Henney, Chiwetel EjioforProducers, Rimoinberg Scott, Michael Schaeffer, Aditya Sood, Mark HuffamStudio20th Century FoxRatingPG-13 (Important Parent Alert)Instructions For ContentNudity, Violence, Profanity, Sexual ContentPurchase RightsInstant BroadcastDetailsPremium Video Format (Online Video Stream)Supported Devices46ViewableA Calc Top Review by USCynthia CheneyVerified in US August 2, 2022 Great movie but strange problem with Amazon review systemVerified buy Why is this a review (beginning quote below) pom attributed to window by only 64 people, the reviews above are the ones that 676 people found helpful and 91 people found it helpful? FloaterRevised in the US December 10, 2020 Great story with 14 moral lessons from the far left Verified BuyAnother review covers the main story of this film. Let's look at the film's subtext. If you look beyond the main story, you will find 14 subversive moral lessons from the far left. We can learn a lot from following these moral lessons. Warning: spoilers ahead, and 14 numbered charges, each focusing on alleged "anti-Christian" or "anti-American" aspects of the cast, dialogue, or setting (e.g., London). Each one has the hour/minute/second (e.g. 1:38:14) of the video so you can check it yourself. Here are 3 examples: "1:38:14 Watney discusses the 1967 United Nations Outer Space Treaty, in which member governments agreed never to claim sovereignty over extraterrestrial nations. Two years later, in 1969, Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin planted the American flag on the moon, forever proclaiming that this is American soil because America is God's country, notUN. A week ago (December 2020) China planted its communist flag on our moon. We should have considered it an act of war. We must unleash fire on Beijing. Instead, we foll down and did nothing. Moral Lesson 6: The UN is powerful and American sovereignty is a joke. my father was Indian and my mother a Baptist, so I believe in some." Mitch: "We'll take any help we can." Moral Lesson 7: It's okay not to follow Jesus. 1:17:55 Mitch and Vincent unanimously use the Lord's name in vain. Moral Lesson 8: You will not be truly judged. What does it do? Why the testimonials shown above have been helpful to more people. Oh yes, this is being done as part of a left-wing Amazon plot to ridicule the extreme right and Christians. 1 credit on Amazon, it works. 6 people found this helpful. mr. FloaterViewed in USA December 10, 2020 A story with 14 moral lessons from the far left Verified purchaseOther reviews evaluate the main story of this movie Let's look at the credits of the movie If you look beyond the main story you will find 14 devastating moral lessons from the far left We can learn a lot by following These moral lessons Warning: spoilers follow Let's discover our need for diversity 32:44 A scene with the following characters: 1. Teddy Sanders, white male, director of NASA 2. Vincent Kapoor, black male, head of mission to Mars 3. Annie Montrose, white woman , director of media relations 4. Mindy Park, white woman, satellite In this scene, a black man and a white woman claim that Watney is alive, and the white man refuses to accept it. Finally convinced, he says that he does not want Watney's team to know that he is alive. This white man is the bad guy in the movie. He constantly makes decisions that threaten Watney's salvation. Moral Lesson 1: Any group of people, even as small as 4 people, be racially and sexually diverse. It is likely that one or more of these characters were gay. Moral Lesson 2: White people are wrong and evil. Black women and men are smart. 3. moral lesson. Women don't have to be stay-at-home moms because they can now have a career at NASA. 1:22:22 Black Rich Fumell becomes the hero of history. Moral Lesson 4: We need more blacks, meaning fewer whites, to work in tech. The fact that our entire civilization was built by white people is irrelevant and I should be ashamed to admit it. Black men are smarter than white men. We learn of the death of the American exclusion 3:13 The captain says, "My apologies to my countrymen, Vogel." 2:01:23 We see Vogel holding the German flag. Moral Lesson 5: NASA may wonder why it lost the support of the American public, but that certainly has nothing to do with the fact that NASA is no longer all-American. Movies like this teach us that we all need to work together with aliens who are our equals. 1:38:14 Watney talks about the 1967 United Nations Outer Space Treaty, in which member states agreed never to claim sovereignty over extraterrestrial nations. Two years later, in 1969, Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin raised the American flag on the moon and declared it American soil forever because America is God's country, not the United Nations. A week ago (December 2020) China raised its communist flag on our moon. We should have recognized it as an act of war. We must unleash fire on Beijing. Instead, we turned around and did nothing. Moral Lesson 6: The UN is omnipotent and American sovereignty is a joke. Let's study religion. 1:16:14 This dialogue: Mitch Henderson: "Do you believe in God, Vincent?" Vincent Kapoor: Yes. My father was a Hindu and my mother was a Baptist, so I believe in some." Mitch: "We'll use any help we can get." Moral Lesson 7: It's okay not to follow Jesus. 1:17:55 IntMitch and Vincent use Pan's name in vain. Moral Lesson #8: You're not really on trial. Let's learn feminism. 2:50 We find out that the captain is a woman. 4:28 The captain challenges his male subordinates. 8:32 Crew man says he needs captain's permission. 29:07 "NASA men and women will be soldiers" 2:12:53 About 90% of the students in Watney's class are women. Moral Lesson #9: Traditional values are dead, and NASA is working hard to make sure they stay dead. Let's find out where to get the news. 9:42 We see the CNN logo for the first time. CNN is the only American news channel mentioned in the film. The communist information network plays a key role in the dissemination and implementation of these moral teachings. Moral Lesson 10: CNN sounds left-wing to you, but that's only because you haven't watched it often enough. If you treat them as your sole source of news, you will soon overlook their prejudices. Let's learn to love globalism and communism 1:20:21 The Chinese offer their help. Without her, we couldn't save Watney. Moral Lesson 11: Globalism is good. We should leave America and join the global community. Moral Lesson 12: Communism is good. America is concerned about our love of capitalism and freedom. We must learn to rely on the Chinese and follow their example to become communists. 2:10:37 Following Watney's recovery, a CNN correspondent reports, "This is a great moment for this nation, for the world, and for international space travel." Moral Lesson 13: We must never consider America the greatest country in the world. world. That would be racist. Instead, we always have to figure out how to give credit to everyone else. Watney's recovery is celebrated in the public squares of densely populated cities around the world. People stand in these squares to watch the news.1:52:36 Times Square2:10:03 More Times Square, everyone is cheering1:54:09 CNSA Headquarters (Beijing)2:10:12 More CNSAEveryone claps1:54:20 Trafalgar Square (London)2:10:07 More Trafalgar Square, everyone claps Why would anyone in London or Beijing care about NASA? Because NASA is a globalist. Moral Lesson 14 Densely populated cities are good places. If you live in one of these places, you may find a strong central government that controls everything in your life. You can stand side by side with thousands of other globalists. Why do you want to watch the news on TV from the comfort of your home like a loony capitalist when you can stand in the cold and watch TV on a giant public screen? 75 people found this helpful Amazon buyer reviewed in United States November 5, 2022 Incredibly funny and well made Movie VersionVerified Purchase One person found this helpful November 6, 2022 Very good movieVerified PurchaseH SnyderVerified Purchase US November 15, 2022 Great DVDVerified PurchaseDustin24Verified PurchaseDustin24, USA Good movieVerified Purchase Much better movie than the title or description would suggest!!!! The film has all the elements needed to hold the interest of a wide age spectrum. Film critics judge everything except what the general public appreciates. Oscar-winning films have often flopped at the box office because of distracted critics who overlooked subtle moral, social, or ideological scenarios. They reflect those who lack the elements of life that a good actor can bring to life. Many films will never be seen because of the critical evaluation of a person representing a small part of society. And while everything that's come up in the Star Wars saga is equally interesting to watch, it's nothing more than passable acting and a plot that doesn't differ too much from any of the previous scenarios, which is clearly a clear prejudice based on the producer, director, or just a fond approach to this timeless saga. But Oscar-winning material? That's an obvious leap. And yet, when he put together all of George Lucas' work, he couldn't get less than 4 stars. And in the absence of tens of millions of fans, The Martian should get 3.5 stars just for the movie as a whole. Of course there were a few unnecessary minutes of dead time trying to illustrate the passage of many months when it said "9 months later". I think most viewers at this point in the film sympathize with his mental state after so many years. But they didn't get 10 minutes of boredom and solitude out of him due to a major failure of his well-oiled system. Even the most positive combat disappointment after a year of building and 75% disappearing in less than a minute. The more we dwell on our frustration, the harder it is to regroup. However, it is important to wish away the tragedy, but then we have to force ourselves to stop dwelling on what we cannot change and force our minds to start building a new solution. Otherwise, depression sets in and a downward spiral begins. Besides, he had no one. And today, steps 1-5 always assume that everyone has someone. The thing is, many don't, so those who live in an academic vacuum and establish what is normal when faced with the same circumstances that cause the same sense of frustration RARELY follow their own advice and will suffer. And yet, because they wear the badge of the Academy as Ph.D.s, they are assumed to be already applying their own advice. And therein lies the problem. Any psychopath can go to college and get a job with a Ph.D. They are still psychopaths, however the cult of higher education automatically assumes that anyone who bears this label is an expert and a reasonable person and equally intelligent.It was the original band that set the bar. I checked once and they are 90% based on the memory you are born with so they are genetic. People with average memory are classified as having average intelligence. Those with excellent social skills do not receive any points. Those who have creativity and the ability to invent solutions really need a group with great memory to provide information that uses creative skills to find a solution. In addition, they can communicate it in an unprecedented way, which is necessary for the perception and understanding of the masses. The good news is that this is an old IQ test. Needs must be destroyed and attempts to create different labels for people that only divide us and limit our potential should be stopped when all parties come together and provide all the necessary elements. However, the abolition of classes never helped in Britain, and the early American settlers abolished the class society and simply named it something else. If a person gets up today and voices the smartest and most reasonable decision. Before they finish, the media will examine their background and, depending on whether they meet the credibility criteria, determine if what they originally said made sense, but without that suffix after their name, anything said would be discounted because it is the lack of an appropriate degree. If you have money and are smart enough, you can get a Ph.D. The academy agrees and the university system gets its cut. And initially it didn't come from me, but from two people, each of whom has two doctoral degrees. Oddly enough, they rarely leave the academy, do not communicate well, but fit the definition of authority. I can name two doctors with Gott syndrome. It is impossible to hear of anyone who has less power, but who is endowed with great power and authority to destroy anyone who challenges them. While their actions are falling off the wall, theirallows any strange behavior when the patient is angry and determined to endanger himself and others. Usually because they question one of society's gods. DENKENSTOFFCarlos Daniel Matias US release 31 Oct 2022 One of my favorite movies ever!!!!Verified PurchaseSee all reviews