With all these choices, you're sure to find the perfect ghou, jack o' lantern, or haunted house for you. Be sure to click on the image to print it without the ad. As you can see in the images I've shared I chose a few Disney-themed items and a few non-Disney gifts (like candy). Choose items you were going to pack the kids for Disney anyway. Find larger sized plastic Easter eggs to fill yourself or choose pre-filled to make the process easier. While your teens might balk at participating in a "kiddie" egg hunt, if you make it worth their while, they might even crack a smile (ie: give them gifts they really want!) Kids who can read on their own will likely be good with figuring out the clues and doing the indoor scavenger hunt by themselves. You'll print and cut these out, then hide them around the house or hotel room. We went on a road trip on Easter Sunday one year and our kids didn't expect the Easter Bunny to leave them baskets outside of the hotel room door! It took some doing (and concealment of presents inside the luggage) but it was well worth it to see the kids' surprised faces. DLTK The Halloween coloring pages at Coloring.ws are a mixture of spooky, adorable, and just plain fun. Print Activities The Halloween coloring pages from Print Activities are organized by category making it very easy to find just what you're looking for. This is a good option for younger kids so they aren't dragging the filled basket throughout the house. Looking for more printables for your Disney vacation? Wool Jr. A lot of the Halloween coloring pages at Wool Jr. feature animals. For toddlers or younger children, you'll need to read the clues and offer suggestions on where to search next. Keep reading to get your free Disney scavenger hunt printables. We have both preschoolers and teenagers at home so it's important that I have activities that appeal all age levels.
