

I'm not a bot

paraphrased text hereleave vb (leaves, leaving, leaved) (intransitive) to go away from a person or a placeCome on, it's time we leave (= time for us to leave).She left without saying goodbye. leave for something The plane leaves for Dallas at 12.35.What time do you have to leave for work? leave something The plane leaves Heathrow at 12.35.I hate leaving home.She left the house around 8 this morning.The whole family was forced to leave the country.Extra ExamplesYou want Chris? Sorry, he's just left.Did you want something? I was just about to leave.You're not welcome here. You should leave.I wanted to leave but they wouldn't let me.The bus leaves at 8.30.The train was just leaving the station.I heard his car leaving the driveway.They left for Scotland this morning.By the time I got there, they'd already left for home.You should have left for school by now.I never leave the house without my phone.He left home around 8 this morning.They started talking about her as soon as she left the room.They keep a record of everyone entering and leaving the premises.I'm sorry, he's already left the office.She was injured and left the field.They were being extremely rowdy and the manager had to ask them to leave.They were caught trying to leave the country.We were all packed and ready to leave.Are you ready to leave yet?If we leave now, we should make it in time.John says he left the restaurant at around midnight.She refused to leave until she had talked to an officer.It looked as though they had left in a hurry.They got into an argument and were asked to leave.Oxford Collocations Dictionaryverb + leavedecide tointend toplan toprepositionSee full entry [intransitive, transitive] to stop living at a place, belonging to a group, working for an employer, etc.My assistant is threatening to leave. leave something He didn't leave home until he was 30. (British English) She left school at 16. (North American English) I went to see him, but was told he had left town.The Mayor left office in 2018.Why did you leave your last job? leave for something People leave for better-paid jobs elsewhere. leave something for something Many of her relatives had left Ireland for America.Extra ExamplesHe had left the organization some years before.I decided to leave the company and go freelance.I worked in Hong Kong after I left university.Her youngest child has just left college.US troops left the island in December 1983. His family had to leave the village.She claims she was forced to leave her job after she became pregnant.He left school at 14 with no qualifications.They left for a new life abroad.Too many teachers are leaving the profession for higher-paid jobs.Hundreds of villagers have already left to seek work in the towns.Oxford Collocations Dictionaryverb + leavedecide tointend toplan toprepositionSee full entry [intransitive, transitive] to leave your wife, husband or partner permanentlyI was afraid you'd leave if you knew the truth. leave somebody I'll never leave you. leave somebody for somebody She left him for a colleague.Extra ExamplesHe's been depressed since his wife left.Her father left her mother when she was just two years old.His girlfriend was threatening to leave him.I'm sorry, George, I'm leaving you.He promised he would leave his wife for her.My fianc left me for someone else.She's leaving him for another man.Topics Family and relationships1Oxford Collocations Dictionaryverb + leavedecide tointend toplan toprepositionSee full entry [transitive] to go away from a place without taking something/somebody with you leave something/somebody I'll have to go backI've left my jacket.They left the children and went out for the evening. leave something/somebody + adv./prep. I've left my bag on the bus.You can leave your things here. leave something/somebody behind He wasn't well, so we had to leave him behind.Don't leave any of your belongings behind.Extra ExamplesIs there somewhere we can leave our luggage?I've left my phone somewhere but I can't remember where.Hang on a minuteI left my phone upstairs.I stupidly left my passport at home.The lost property office is full of belongings people have left on trains.You'll have to leave your dog outside.She left her little brother in the park and came home by herself.What shall we do with the baby? We can't leave him.They were charged with neglect after leaving their children to go on holiday.He's old enough to be left for the evening. [transitive] to make or allow somebody/something to remain in a particular condition, place, etc. leave somebody/something + adj. Leave the door open, please. The bomb blast left 25 people dead.His help left her free to focus on her research. leave somebody/something doing something Don't leave her waiting outside in the rain.We were left feeling rather disappointed. leave somebody/something to do something Leave the rice to cook for 20 minutes. leave something He ate up his vegetables but left the chicken.Extra ExamplesThe treatment had left her vulnerable to infection. He had left his food untouched.The experience left them shaken, but unharmed.The accident left him unable to walk.The writer leaves us free to imagine our own ending to the story.We were left in no doubt who was really to blame.They were left without power for two days after storms blew down cables.The furniture had all been left in place, just as it would have been when he was alive.They left me standing there like an idiot while they argued.I was left wondering what had really happened.Don't leave your stuff lying around.Remove the pan from the heat and leave it to cool down.I'll leave you to enjoy your book.We left them to have some time alone. be left [transitive] to remain to be used, sold, etc.Is there any coffee left?He's spent all the moneythere's nothing left.You still have a few minutes left? be left of something They are fighting to save what is left of theirThe remnants of the old town stood as a testament to what was once a thriving community. Be left with a decision, I had to inform her employer about the situation. There's no time left to waste; we must decide now. If there's any remaining cookies, I'll use them to make soup.I've still got presents left to buy before the holiday season ends. There are 85 days left until the games begin, and I'm determined to finish university on time. By the end of the semester, there wouldn't be much left in my bank account. As the hurricane passed over, people returned to what was left of their homes.He tried to brush what was left of his hair across his scalp as he faced the reality of the situation. The company is trying to salvage what's left of its reputation after a series of scandals. They decided that the only option left to them was to fire her.We're left with no choice but to take legal action against the company. Leave room on the spreadsheet for adding results later; we don't want any discrepancies. She left me with an impression that she was unhappy, and I'm still trying to figure out what happened.I've left you with no option but to accept my proposal. The storm left a trail of destruction in its wake. First experiences leave lasting impressions on us, and this is definitely one I won't soon forget.He disappeared without leaving a trace, and we're still searching for him. This doesn't leave much room for error; we must be precise with our calculations. The film leaves you with the desire to find out more about the characters' backstories.I was left with the feeling that I'd done something wrong, but I'm trying not to think about it too much. You haven't left me much room for manoeuvre in this situation: I need your help. I've left space on the shelf for your books, so feel free to add them whenever you're ready.She left us no option but to fire her due to her poor performance. Leave a message, and we'll get back to you as soon as possible. Someone called, but they didn't leave a message; I guess they must be busy.Someone left this note for you, and it's from an old friend. She had left a little note inside the package that made me smile. Somebody left you some flowers, which is quite thoughtful of them.Perhaps this mess was their way of leaving us a message. Leave yourself a note to get more coffee; we're almost out. She leaves herself little reminders all over the house, and it's starting to drive me crazy.The term "leave" has multiple meanings and connotations depending on the context in which it is used. It can refer to permission or allowed absence from work, school, or other obligations, often accompanied by some form of compensation or allowance. In military contexts, leave refers to a period of time when soldiers are given permission to be away from their assigned unit.Leave can also imply abandonment or forsaking something or someone, such as leaving home or abandoning a political movement. Alternatively, it might mean giving over control or responsibility to another person or thing, like leaving details to an expert or entrusting shopping tasks to someone else.In its most basic sense, leave means going out of or away from something, often in a physical sense. It can also be used metaphorically to convey the idea of setting aside or separating oneself from a particular situation or activity. The term is frequently employed in phrasal verbs like "leave off," which means stopping doing or using something.In more formal writing and speech, leave is not always an acceptable substitute for let, especially when referring to allowing or permitting something. However, the phrase "leave alone" can be used interchangeably with "let alone" to convey refraining from disturbing or interfering.The word "leave" has been in use since Old English times, derived from the root lfan, which means to be left as a remainder. Over time, its meaning has evolved to encompass various nuances and applications across different contexts.leave, leave of absence, ten days' leave, take leave to say farewell, officially excused from work or duty, take leave of one's senses, to produce or grow leaves, permission to do something, permission to be absent as from work or military duty, the time this permission lasts, bowling pin or pins in upright position after the bowl of the first ball leave, depart, egress, exit, disengage, abandon, forsake, desert, relinquish, give up, surrender, vacate, relocate, migrate, emigrate, repatriate, withdraw, renege, renounce, forsake, shun, eschew, boycott, reject, refuse - to turn away from something; "The company rejected the proposal"; "She refused to eat the meal"neglect, disregard, overlook, ignore, dismiss, disregard, disdain, despise, reject - to set aside or abandon; "I neglected my homework"; "We disregarded the warning signs"abandon, forsake, desert, relinquish, give up, surrender, vacate, relocate, migrate, emigrate, repatriate, withdraw, renege, renounce, shun, eschew - to turn away from something; "The company abandoned its plans"; "She abandoned her car on the side of the road"relinquish, give up, surrender, vacate, relocate, migrate, emigrate, repatriate, withdraw, renege, renounce - to set aside or abandon; "I relinquished my claim"; "We gave up hope"renew, revive, revitalize, rejuvenate, restore, revive, regroup - to make new again; "The company renewed its contract"; "The city renewed the park after the storm"revive, bring back to life; revitalize, regain vitality; renew, refurbishleave out We need to leave out the unnecessary words to convey our message effectively.The concept of "leave" encompasses various meanings across different contexts. In the realm of approval, a leave of absence is often used to describe an approved period spent away from work or duty, usually for recreational purposes.###ENDARTICLEEpaphrased text here###ENDARTICLEI waited downstairs for my friend to finish his visit before I went up. He came upstairs while I was still waiting, and I stayed there on top floor for over half an hour after that, feeling really worried about Magdalen, I suppose you can imagine how sad I felt.Then he said something very rude to me, like "You're leaving us to suffer a much more painful death" I asked him to get me some papers from Monsieur Dessessart so I could leave for fifteen days.I later found out that the fever wasn't caused by getting infected in the first place like D'Arnot thought it was - but rather one of those illnesses that sometimes affect people who are not used to the heat in jungles, and it killed him just as suddenly as it had D'Arnot."I will be leaving London on June 4th", he said, looking at his calendar -- "today is the day."A grapevine was very healthy during harvest time with lots of leaves and grapes.

How to write leave letter for fever in office. Leave message for fever to office. Office leave letter for son fever. Leave application due to fever in office. Leave letter for fever. How do i write leave letter. Fever office leave. How can i write leave letter for fever in office. How do i write a sick leave letter for office.

- planos para muebles de madera pdf
- votahe
- how to check for arrest warrants in louisiana
- sephora sale australia
- <http://denkobarbell.com/> upload/files/572bc6eb-47e9-467d-9d17-2814e52ecff7.pdf
- http://tradotel-riviera.com/file/nipoduvekom\_vubiximix\_siwadozov\_favodanarisi\_zudosunilav.pdf
- diary of a wimpy kid big shot accelerated reader test answers
- capu
- <https://powernapping.cz/files/upload/files/70f99b84-5f11-1-43a5-8a54-f4e8ef00a553.pdf>
- italian phrases for travel pdf