This general chemistry review was the first purchase I had ever made to prepare/review for a course, and I will never leave reviews on anything, but I just have to say that this is the best course preparation out there! I watch videos of Chad because not only are its analogies hilarious and effective, it emits the most positive energy and I feel inspired to learn chemistry because of him. Thank you for being a phenomenal instructor, Chad! ⭐ “Read less Janna Bararan 5 stars 5 stars ⭐ “ I received a 25 AA on dat. I attribute much of my high general chemistry and organic chemistry (24 in each) to the preparation of Chad. His videos for organic chemistry are incredibly useful. His practice tests for all subjects helped me so much. I used your preparation for the last few weeks before my test and I think it just solidified the concepts and types of questions that were on the test. Also, just like a human being that Chad seems like a fantastic person. His empathy and care really show up in the videos and I’m glad to have found his preparation material. Read less Take the dat and mark well is one of the most important aspects of applying to dental school. Your DAT score will not only impact the dental school you attend, but will also indirectly shape your career. Although DAT is a stressful process, it doesn’t have to be. In this article, we’ll go over what you need to do to prepare for your dat. 1. Apply to take the DAT to take the DAT, your first step will get a Dentpin, which you can do here. Once you have a Dentpin, you can apply to take any of the ADA exams including the DAT. I strongly recommend that you save your Dentpin as you need it to re-hire the DATs and all future Dental Board exams. 2. Choose a Trial Date After you apply to take the DAT and your application is approved, it will be time to choose a date. When choosing a trial date, there are some important things you should consider. Three important considerations for selecting a trial date Sign up early ⭐ – “We highly recommend the for the test date at least 2 months in advance to your prospective opportunity. This will ensure the availability of the desired dates in advance. Please note that the seats are very limited in each symmetrical center where the DAT is held and most seats fill quickly. Choose the right day of the week - we highly recommend choosing the day of the week that works bestAbout you. Personally, for example, I prefer a Monday to have the weekend for a final review without having to worry about other commitments (e.g. school, work, etc.). Regardless of the chosen date, it is important to ensure that you do not have any other obligations over the last 7 days preceding the preparation for DAT. Choosing the right time of the day is a question of timing. Believe it or not, this is as important as choosing the right day of the week to participate in the DAT. Since the DAT is offered at different times on specific dates, you can have the opportunity to take the DAT in the morning or in the afternoon. If you are more than one morning person, we suggest you take the DAT in the morning. Your decision should be based on the type of person you are, what measures most well your needs and circumstances that you do the best in. 3. Choose the right materials This is one of the most important aspects of DAT preparation. It is also important to select appropriate sources of study from which to learn. Remember, your time is precious. You will lose precious time if you decide to read your biology book or MCAT books that treat extra topics, not on the DAT. For example, instead of dedicating 50 hours to the preparation for the Biology section, you may spend 150 hours following the use of content not related to DAT. For this reason, we recommend that all participants complete a review of all subjects using a dedicated DAT resource, regardless of their level of performance in their university courses. Below is a list of highly recommended DAT resources: DATBooster «Almost recommended as it includes 4000+ high yield practice applications, 700+ HD videos, detailed study notes, unlimited PAT questions, fully integrated PATBooster content and DAT 2021 representatives. DATDestroyer «Excellent for additional practice. It contains over 900 high-performance questions that serve as an excellent question desk for DAT preparation. Videos of Chad “They are great to review the fundamentals of general and organic chemistry. They are fully integrated into the DATBooster’s Study Schedule that you can find here. 4. Creating a study program In recent years, we have noticed that the most organized students and that stick to a study program get the best results. At DATBooster, we offer a 10-week study program that has been used by thousands of students. This study program tells you exactly what you need to do by the end of each day to maximize your DAT score. Keep in mind, you should always use a study program that best suits your needs. So feel free to change this program if necessary. 5. Start your preparation with content reviewMost students, you may have forgotten the content you learned in your basic science courses. For this reason it is important to start reviewing and relearning all the topics covered in the DAT in order to maximize your score. Over the years, we have seen many many skip the content review part and go straight to practice tests, which 98% of the time leads to a low DAT score. Remember, the key to success is knowing that the information is being tested inside. This is an important step because if you don’t know the subjects being tested, then you can’t answer the questions correctly. Having a good basic knowledge of the information being tested will be critical to how well you can understand and answer the questions. 6. DAT Practice Test DAT is like a marathon. You’ll need to get enough practice to measure where you are, where you can improve, and get a feel for the test itself. The best way to do this is through DAT practice tests. When you are ready to take the DAT, we strongly recommend that you go through all the practice tests on DATBooster at least once as they are based on the 2021 DAT. Keep in mind, the extra questions in each subject area are also good practices, however, the practice tests are always the most representative of the actual exam. Concluding How to Prepare Although preparing for DAT is a daunting task, it is important to stay active, enjoy life, eat healthy, and get enough sleep at night during your preparation. Remember, to prepare for this rigorous examination, your brain will need to rest as well as your body. If you have any further questions, do not hesitate to join our team, we will always be here to help. ? CourseSaver is a high-level DAT prep course for pre-dental students, they are mostly known because of the “Videos of Chad.” That’s because their instructors Chad and Alan are pretty good at explaining it in a way that pre-dental students can understand. Here we will give you a review on their services so you can get an idea on how great CourseSaver is. Course Saver has been coaching pre-health students for over 12 years. This is a huge advantage when it comes to their experience and is a great advantage over other services. There are other reasons why CourseSaver is separated from other DAT courses, we’ll get to them shortly. However, while there are a lot of good things to say about them, we will make an effort to remain completely neutral in our review. Regardless of this, we will also give our opinion on what might be the best course of action to prepare for the DAT. Overview. Most people know about their services from their video library, called “Cadás Videos.” Course Saver also offers great outlines for each section of the course and quizzes for the most relevant subjects in the DAT. Below we will see in detail every evidence they offer, as well as the content of their most popular videos. Each video covered by Chad is well done and the material is provided by an expert. The main objective is to help pre-health students to prepare for anything and everything that would be required by them, such as the DAT. Most people who view their video videos I agree that I’m really immersive, you really feel like you’re in class with a great teacher. Videos provide a way to see and listen to Chad explains every concept in detail. If you’re busy, or it’s just easier for you, their videos offer a great alternative from reading. You can play each video at two different speeds, fast or normal, this allows viewers to go through the material quickly and stop the important parts. Which coursesaver can offer. Coursesaver offers more than 40 videos from free data and more to preview the material provided by them. This is all done in an attempt to give each viewer and customer the best learning experience possible. This is great because you can preview the available material before buying their services. This shows great trust in the quality of their videos and materials. Online quizzes offer a good way to see how much you mastered a topic, if you like videos of this chad, you have a recipe for success. You will connect all the necessary knowledge of general and organic chemistry in no time. This is one of the best sources of reliable study material for your DAT available online. However, their focus on chemistry comes at a price, the material for the Biology section of DAT, as well as the other 3 tests, is not so complete. Examine each section CourseSaver has to offer, below you will find a review on their contours, videos, notes and quizzes. Biology. Their material in biology is really at an average point of what they offer. It is not as large and extended as material of chemistry but is also more complete than their other subjects. Contours: give an overview of each lesson; These are available for download. Start with a brief review of the material covered in each session, just to let you know what will be covered in advance. These contours are a great source of useful notes to help you understand the raw material of each subsection. Video: Videos in this section are not complete, however, are available for free, which can be good or bad for you. Their material is incomplete and as such you should rely on other courses that may cover this most complete part. A good source for biology material would be a datprep or a datprep. Alan “The notes: the notes in this section are about key biology terms and definitions. These notes are very useful for deleting some concepts before a test. In this section these notes are fundamental and they gather quite well. Quiz: the quiz in this section contain over 400 questions in total. This offers a very reliable way to test your knowledge. General chemistry. This is one of the largest and most comprehensive section coursesaver. This together with theOrganic chemistry, it provides enough reason to get this service. The videos and the material of this section are a great way to really make chemical chemistry to understand. Especially when it comes to the way Chad explains the concepts, this is a great and vast section. Each concept is explained in a simple but complete way. Let’s move on to the detailed review of this section. Outlines: each lesson in this section offers a download for the contours of the main topic. These cover a very complete revision of the date lesson for each case. Their contours are great to overcome the definitions and more, after crossing a video. Video: Every video in this section is completely great and useful. These are the videos that make the whole course an excellent alternative to prepare for the DAT. Each video topic offers the opportunity to understand and master the concepts of general chemistry that disturb most pre-dental students. Quizzes: Quiz in this section cover over 300 questions and are a great way to test your knowledge. Organic chemistry. This is the second largest section of Coursesaver. The main point again is Chad’s videos. Many people think this is the best source of qualità content for organic chemistry in the market. Every lesson is given so that it makes every concept easy to understand. Guidelines: To download the descriptions of each lesson treated in this section are also available. You can check them to see exactly what it is covered in each lesson. Once again, this is a great origin material to be reviewed before and after studying Chad videos. Reactions synthesis: This simple summary that contains all the reactions you should know for this section section. Video: Once again, Chad videos take the spotlight. These are great and make the concepts difficult seem more understandable. As every video offers you new key concepts or a different take the things you already know. That’s why CourseSaver gets the biggest number of praise that can, this material is simply high quality. Quizzes: There are over 200 questions ready to test your knowledge in this section. Perceptive ability test. Their perceptive skill section is not really so good. The only part of the Pat covered by Coursesaver is the Angle Discrimination subtest. In addition to this there are some quizzes available with a lot of questions for practice. A good idea would be to use CourseSaver for their large number of questions while preparing for them with another service like Patcrusher. Quizzes: the total number of questions available due to all their quizzes are 1,100. These are not free and require the purchase of their services. Understanding reading. The reading understanding section is largely incomplete and does not offer much help. It is better to use a different source of information for this section. You can try using Datprep as a source of information and practice for this A quantitative reasoning. They offer a lot of quizzes that cover most of the relevant material for this topic. However, this section is also incomplete when it comes to videos, contours and notes. Note. This section does not offer a good and solid basis to prepare for this part of the dat. We recommend using other resources to cover this topic. additional resources. Coursesaver also offers some additional resources that cover basic and useful information. For example, we have. Ceretta video. These videos cover the basic wax method and provide some examples. These are largely advantageous for all pre-dental students and will help them develop valuable skills for dental school. However, this is not a requirement of the dat, it is only a good ability to develop if you are expected to become a dentist. So why this is labeled as an additional resource. Learning to wax properly a tooth can give you a header against some of your future classmates once Ace Your DAT. Review courses NBDE. They offer quiz for the two parts of the NBDE exams. There are over 6,000 questions for the first part and over 1,000 for the second. You can get valuable practice time using this resource. However, once again, this is not a requirement to enter the dental school, so it was not covered in most other services that offer preparation for the college auditing courses. Coursesaver offers many videos, contours and quizzes on a lot of different subjects. From general chemistry like their strong to physics and biochemistry. You can take advantage of these additional resources to maintain a great GPA when applying for dental school. For example, remember that having a high GPA GPA and GPA of science is fundamental to actually enter the dental school. Take advantage of these resources for ACE those classes and fully focus on our DAT preparation. How to study using Chad videos? One way to focus and study fully using Chad videos is to follow these tips: print all the contours of each section you are studying. Review the relevant profile before and after seeing a video from the date section. Take notes on the concepts and terms you don’t understand while watching a video. After finishing a video review the relevant notes available. Answer the practice questions for each section you have studied. Review all the correct answers and in case you have wrong to learn why. Check your scores on each section and re-make each one that has an unsatisfactory score. Again, you should use more services to prepare for your dat. This is the best way to fully prepare and understand all the questions provided as practice by this service. Our suggestion. Take advantage of the videos and materials of Chad for the General Chemistry and Organic Chemistry section. Use other resources such as Patcrusher or DatPrep to integrate all other sections offThat they are incomplete or not good as good. Ideally take advantage of quizzes and questions provided by Coursesassaver. You need to test your knowledge against many questions of practice and test test To meet you how much you are prepared. There are many more advantages to bring from Coursesaver. Free trial. Coursesaver currently offers a free week as a way to try their services. You can use this offer to try the quality of this service at first. Ideally, you will use this free week before buying their services. Support. They also have some other features that simply make them more useful for pre-dental students. One of which is their support of the website. You can ask different and complex questions but related to other users or even Chad and Alan instructors. There is also a cool chat feature that makes user interaction possible. Overall their customer support is quite good and their e-mail response times are quick. Discounts from time to time. Their services offer the possibility of buying specific sections of their course. However, all purchases are not refundable. After the initial purchase you will have access to their material for 30 days if after that time you have not canceled your subscription you will be charged and dates another 30 days. The good news is that if you use only their services to say 45 days and then delete your subscription, you will be charged for two 30-day subscriptions, but a discount will be provided for the last 15 days after cancellation. Overall this service offers lots of flexibility to choose which sections of the course purchased. Not to mention about general and organic chemistry, this is the best service for the best price. Accessibility. Once you have purchased their services you will have access to the material from anywhere with an internet connection. You can also use their desktop app to download Chad videos and upload them to other devices. This makes it possible to review their material even if you don’t have an available internet connection. Conclusion of our review on Coursesaver. Coursesaver is simply one of the best available services that offer tutoring and preparation for the DAT. Their chemistry sections are quite exceptional and useful. However, we need to warn you, just because you use this service does not mean that you will magically improve your scores. Ultimately everything has decreased as much effort and work you put in your studies. You have to work hard and pay attention to the material given if you want to learn and improve. The videos of Chad are a great source material capable of building a strong base for general and organic chemistry, regardless of other subjects that are not so deeply covered by them. What we can say with trust is that you use coursesassavers as a source of preparation and information, along with other services, it is the best way to prepare for your DAT. Dat.
