Changing the world to be ours [Zendaya:] You know I want you It's not a secret I try to hide But I can't have you We're bound to break and My hands are tied Thanks to Natalie O'Brien, Erika Noviatyn, Kaleka, Darlene for correcting these lyrics. Writer(s): Benj Pasek, Justin Paul In the film the song is performed by Phillip Carlyle (played by Zac Efron) and Anne Wheeler (played by Zendaya) at the circus' arena when he tries to tell her that their fates can be changed if only they are willing to do so. Some parts of the song are sung when the couple moves through the air's inging on ropes. It showcases the notion that their "hands are tied" and their fates are predestined by something or someone from above. This song of forbidden love was written by Benj Pasek and Justin Paul for the P.T. Barnum musical biopic The Greatest Showman. Pasek and Paul's previous works include the music for the movie La La Land, the Broadway musicals James and the Giant Peach and Dear Evan Hansen and the NBC TV series Smash.The song is a duet between Zac Efron (playing a rich white playwright called Phillip Carlyle who becomes P.T. Barnum's partner) and Zendaya (who portrays Anne Wheeler, a poor black acrobat and trapeze artist). The pair are in love, but after Phillip's parents insult Anne's lowly status, she runs away. Philip chases after Anne, trying to convince her that they can "rewrite the stars" and change their destiny.What if we rewrite the stars?Say you were made to be mineNothing could keep us apartYou'd be the one I was meant to findAnne is less optimistic, believing there are too many barriers to having a relationship with someone of another color in racist 19th century America.You think it's easyYou think I don't want to run to youBut there are mountainsAnd there are doors that we can't walk throughAnne declares that though they love each other, no one can rewrite the stars, and sadly there is no hope for their relationship.Speaking in an on-set interview Zendaya said: "There's always the factor of them not being able to be together because of, literally, the color of their skin. You know, at the time that was a hundred and twenty percent not allowed, and it was in fact very dangerous."The song's commercial success represented a chart comeback for Zac Efron, who previously reached the Hot 100 with his Vanessa Hudgens duet "Can I Have This Dance" from High School Musical 3. It was one of a number of tunes that Efron recorded for the High School Musical franchise, the most successful tune being "Breaking Free," which peaked at #4 in 2006.Zendaya had charted several times prior to this song. She posted a #40 high in 2014 with "Replay," from her self-titled debut album.This was covered by English singers Anne Marie and James Arthur for The Greatest Showman: Reimagined, a re-recording of the original soundtrack by some of music's biggest stars. Atlantic Records West Coast president Kevin Weaver explained to Billboard that because of the popularity of The Greatest Showman soundtrack in the UK, he wanted to support that market by recruiting two of Britain's most popular young artists.Their version peaked at #7 in the UK and also reached the top 10 in several other European countries including Belgium and The Netherlands. Though her husband, Theo, initiated the divorce, he's now having a change of heart that's difficult to reconcile as he fights against PTSD demons within. When a chance encounter with a stranger resurrects emotions in Sadie she never expected to feel again, her world is turned upside down. Will Sadie find the courage to shape her own future? Will Theo resolve his internal struggles and win Sadie back? Rewrite the Stars is an honest, moving portrayal of life and love that reminds us how much of our happiness lies within our own grasp. If you like heartwarming stories about love, loss, and redemption, then you'll love Christina Consolino's debut novel. Praise 2020 Ohio Writers' Association Great Novel Contest Finalist 2021 American Book Fest Best Book Awards Finalist 2021 Indie's Today Book Awards Honorable Mention 2022 Independent Book Awards Finalist 2022 Maxy Awards Runner-Up "REWRITE THE STARS is a beautifully written exploration of love—how it changes and evolves when tested by time, circumstance, and history. Consolino gives voice and a story to the experience and the silent, complicated cloud that hovers over families living with PTSD." —Cara Sue Achterberg, national best-selling novelist and author of ONE HUNDRED DOGS & COUNTING "A lovely example of how brokenness can't always be undone but can oftentimes be mended into something beautiful." —Sarah Adlakha, author of SHE WOULDN'T CHANGE A THING "REWRITE THE STARS is a heartwarming and, at times, heartbreaking story of a family's struggle to survive. Consolino does a great job of bringing the reader along for Sadie's and Theo's journeys to find the peace and happiness they both desperately seek." —Christina Berry, author of UP FOR AIR "This is a novel that will be loved by fans of domestic drama and books that get inside a character's head as they grapple with a difficult decision. If moving on is going to hurt someone, is it still the right choice?" —Lainey Cameron, award-winning author of THE EXIT STRATEGY "REWRITE THE STARS is a beautiful and delicate look at a marriage on the brink—and the places we look for love even when we're not sure we deserve it." —Allison Epstein, author of A TIP FOR THE HANGMAN "REWRITE THE STARS is a slow burn of a novel, with flames licking higher page by page. Sadie Rollins-Lancaster's life is turned upside down when she meets a stranger at the grocery store, forcing her to ask tough questions about what she values, who she loves, and who, in her heart, she really is. In addition to the love triangle of Sadie, her husband, and Andrew, there's the love triangle of Sadie from the past, in the present, and looking toward the future. Consolino asks the tough questions about people and relationships: How do we honor our history as we write our new future? What constitutes a family? When can a woman put herself first? This beautiful and eloquent novel explores these questions with depth, grace, empathy, and intimacy, as each of the characters must decide what it means to honor a marriage." —Erin Flanagan, author of IT'S NOT GOING TO KILL YOU AND OTHER STORIES "REWRITE THE STARS is a touching story about love with all the odds against it. Christina Consolino will tug at your heartstrings with this powerful and satisfying novel filled with love, hard choices, and hope. I read it in one sitting and am sure you will too. —Ann Garvin, USA Today best-selling author of I LIKE YOU JUST FINE WHEN YOU'RE NOT AROUND "Christina Consolino's debut novel REWRITE THE STARS is a thoughtful, searing account of a marriage in crisis. With deft and skillful prose, Consolino shares the story of Sadie, a wife trying desperately to cope with the effects of her husband's PTSD, and Theo, who initiates a divorce yet is unable to sever his connection to her. When Sadie meets a man who makes her feel alive again, she must balance her personal needs against those of her husband and children. A fabulous read that will keep you intrigued until the very end." —J.E. Irvin, author of THE STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE OF ROSE STONE "As a veteran's post-traumatic stress disorder exacts a devastating toll on his family, his wife must come to grips with just how much of herself she is able to sacrifice. Rewrite the Stars offers a touching exploration of the complex and divided nature of the human heart." —Jenny Jaeckel, author of HOUSE OF ROUGEAUX "An encounter with a mysterious man at a grocery store could change everything for Sadie, an exhausted mom of three struggling to cope with her dissolving marriage to Theo. Meanwhile, Theo, a vet, struggles with losing his family while coping with PTSD. The story, told expertly by Consolino through the voices of Sadie and Theo, is emotionally gripping and touching, creating deep connection and sympathy for the reader with both characters. Who does your heart go to more: A woman who feels she has lost her partner to war and feels terribly alone or a man who struggles with trauma and is now losing the love of his life to another man? You won't be able to put this one down. A fantastic debut!" —Elena Mikalsen, author of WRAPPED IN THE STARS, HOUSE BY THE CYPRESS TREES, and ALL THE SILENT VOICES "In her tender but unsparring portrait of Theo and Sadie, an emotionally wounded warrior and his frustrated wife, Christina Consolino tells the story of two people learning that even love cannot always overcome the agony of history — but that, in the end, love is the only thing that possibly can. The tenderness and authenticity of Consolino's vision of a young family haunted by the ghost of PTSD is too poignant to be ignored." —Jacquelyn Mitchard, New York Times best-selling author of THE DEEP END OF THE OCEAN "REWRITE THE STARS gives the reader an insider's view of a marriage in the midst of falling apart. Much like the movie Marriage Story, this journey leaves the reader rooting for the couple as individuals and as parents. It also shows how outside forces can help a family heal and help them discover a deeper sense of what family really means." —Karril L. Moser, author of A HOME FOR THE WINDSWEEP "REWRITE THE STARS is a moving portrayal of a woman's journey to navigate the hard choices one faces at life's crossroads and the heart-wrenching decisions she must make to determine her path—a path that will cut through the lives of all those she loves." —Traci Ison Schafer, author of THE ANUAN LEGACY "Christina Consolino spins a bittersweet tale of love and loss, tearful endings, and exciting new beginnings. A natural storyteller, Consolino shines a light on PTSD, a devastating affliction that so often plagues our heroic warriors and their families. With passionate, believable characters you'll root for, REWRITE THE STARS boldly addresses the messiness of love and the excruciating entanglements that keep us from realizing our dreams. Ultimately hopeful and uplifting, REWRITE THE STARS is a beautiful reminder that although relationships shift and change, we must strive for the life we want rather than the life we've got." —Lori Nelson Spielman, New York Times best-selling author of THE LIFE LIST "In REWRITE THE STARS, Christina Consolino draws readers into the breaking point of a woman at a critical crossroads in her life. As Sadie moves toward divorce and finds herself taken by the possibility of new romance, this compelling novel examines not only how we choose between the past and the present—and how to honor both—but how we honor ourselves too. An absorbing read, from start to finish." —Anne Valente, author of THE DESERT SKY BEFORE US Excerpt Chapter 1: Sadie on The morning my life began to unravel like the hem of my worn-out sweater, I found an old love letter from my almost ex-husband in the bottom drawer of my home office desk. The paper, at least fifteen years old, felt as thin to my fingertips as the lace on the bodice of my wedding dress. Inside the folds of the sheet, Theo had printed a few lines of text in his block scrawl—some words he'd written on his own, some he'd borrowed from our favorite poet, Rumi. My love had disturbed my sleep, the text read. You have wrecked my image. You have set me apart. Times had changed. Without you, I can't cope. And yet, they hadn't. Continue reading full excerpt anonymous Jan 10th 2022 10 On November 17, 2018, The Greatest Showman was released, which features a cover of "Rewrite the Stars" by English singers Zac Efron and Zendaya. It was written by ace song writing duo, Pasek and Paul. They both took a familiar theme, which is "your future is written in the star and give it a very neat little twist". This song genre is Pop and produced by Greg Wells. In the film, "Rewrite the Stars" takes place in a circus ring with a superb performance by a couples, involving a large number of ropes and sandbags which I find endlessly fascinating. Also, I find Zendaya has an amazing vocal on capella as she hit the high note. Moreover, this song did not only catch my ears but also touched my heart. It is because this song means the circumstance does not always define us when we can rewrite the future by creating our own fate. For instance, even though the heroine does not believe that they meant to be together despite the racial differences, the hero still not willing to accept the fate as he will do whatever it takes to change the fate. Last but not least, this song personally thought me to never give up on a dream just because of the battles and struggles we going through. Hence, I highly recommend this song to everyone, especially to those who facing some struggles. Page 2 anonymous May 11th 2018 10 My interpretation is that it means to change your fate or destiny, and create it into something you want it to be in love. I have never watched the movie, so this may not be correct, but this is the way I interpreted the song on its own. 6.521 or 1 Pro Credit Pro Credits included with Musinotes Pro Learn More The Greatest Showman - Rewrite The Stars Lyrics 2017 Musical FilmThe Greatest Showman - Rewrite The Stars Lyrics"Rewrite The Stars" is a song from The Greatest Showman performed by Zac Efron (Phillip Carlyle) & Zendaya (Anne Wheeler). think I don't wanna run to youBut there are mountainsAnd there are doors that we can't walk throughI know you're wondering why because we're able to beJust you and me within these wallsBut when we go outside, you're gonna wake up and seeThat it was hopeless after allNo one can rewrite the starsHow can you say you'll be mine?Everything keeps us apartAnd I'm not the one you were meant to findIt's not up to youIt's not up to meWhen everyone tells us what we can beHow can we rewrite the stars?Say that the world can be oursTonightAll I want is to fly with youAll I want is to fall with youSo just give me all of youI want to beSo why don't we rewrite the stars?Maybe the world could be oursTonightYou think it's easyYou think I don't wanna run to youBut there are mountainsAnd there are doors that
