

Click to verify

According to 2025 astorology calender, taurus sign dates in 2025 start from April 19, 2025, 19:55 (UT/GMT) to May 20, 2025, 18:54 (UT/GMT) Apr 20 May 20 Taurus is the second astrological sign in the Zodiac indicated by a Bull and it is situated to the east of Aries and to the west of Gemini. People under the Taurus sign are very conservative and they like stable rather than changeful life. Tauréans usually require a relatively long adaptation period for work, life and environment. Generally, Taurus is the symbol of wealth and Tauréans often have insightful views on investing and financing. Sign: Element: Earth Patron: Venus Energy: Yin Quality: Fixed or Static Metal: Copper Birthstone: Emerald, Jade Ruling Planet: Venus Related Body Part: Neck Favorite Place: New Zealand, Denmark, Australia, Argentina Lucky Color: Green, Pink, Purple Lucky Numbers: 6, 15, 24, 33 Lucky Direction: East, Northeast, West Lucky Gemstone: Emerald Lucky Flowers: Morning Glory, Calla Lily StrengthsTrustworthyPractical and reliableLive a regular lifeDo things in a planned wayPersistentPeace-oriented and perseveringPatient and down-to-earthBusiness sense and steady valuesWeaknessesExcessively possessiveLack of coordination and humor sense, inflexibleRigidNot good at cooperationToo seriousClick for more details about Taurus Personality In Decan sun sign astrology, there are three Decans for each sun sign month with each decan contains a slot of 10 days. Different characteristics and planet are attached to different Decans. Check your decan by your birth date and find out your personality from the following links. Taurus 1st Decan (April 21 - April 30) Taurus 2nd Decan (May 1 to May 10) Taurus 3rd Decan (May 11 - May 20) What are obstacles in love for Taurus Meant! You should be more generous to the money if you want a feeling of sweet love. Of course its not splashing the money. Instead, you should enjoy the sweet feeling of affair which money brings you within the limits of your affordability. All in all, dont be too mean when youre dating. - See obstacles in love for other Signs Dull, the dulltest in the twelve zodiac signs no matter in thought or action.Greedy, can be regarded as the foodie.Rigid, observe all rules and regulations.Gentle, never shout at others loudly.Love cooking, because they are the greediest.Serious, never make fun of and curse angrily.Patient, have incomparable patience.Materialistic, hate gambling.Hate changes, cannot feel secure once there is change.Stubborn, unlikely convinced by anyone. Tauruses are especially suitable for doing business. Most Tauruses regard little wealth as important. Also they dont believe illusory things, which means they firmly believe the authentic ones. It is of course the happiest thing for Tauruses to see money, taking in. Tauruses are really fitted for doing business, especially the one with a small capital. Many people disdain to do this, while Tauruses can always find their interests from it and make a lot of money! - See Career and Signs Europa was a beautiful princess of Phoenicia and it was said that her beauty surpassed all flowers. After she woke up every day, she would take the gold flower basket to the flower lawn to play, bath or pick flowers with the even-aged no girls. Click to read more about the the Mythology of Taurus. Overview: Love, Career, Wealth, Health: In 2024, Taurus will encounter plenty of changes in every aspect and will have show strong determination. Certainly, when they encounter problems, they should not completely fight on their own alone, but give full play to the camaraderie and close relationship with their friends and families. They should believe in themselves in the new year so that they can achieve a good development and breakthrough, otherwise they may stand still without any progress. In 2024, as a result of the messy trivial matters in the family, Taurus may not have too much effort to deal with the problems in the workplace, and they may also make some mistakes in many important data or projects. Taurus must keep calm and clear-minded, and never let their personal emotions affect the work state. In 2024, it is worth expecting that the new graduates in the workplace will be very lucky in obtaining favors from their patrons, and they will have the opportunity to meet responsible and friendly superiors, and they can also learn a lot of valuable knowledge from them Financially, the income of Taurus may stay at a moderate level in 2024, and they will be unable to get additional income and rewards. The most important thing to do at this time is to control their personal desire for shopping, not splurge, improve their security consciousness, and properly take care of their personal money and properties, so as to make ends meet. This year, Taurus must be very cautious and prudent about investment projects and partnerships. They should do a thorough investigation and risk assessment in advance before making the choices so as to minimize the risks. In terms of relationship, the fortune of Taurus will be extreme in 2024, depending on the state of their relationships. Those who have partners may have disagreements and disputes with their partners over trivial things, or even have their partner involved in their relationship. Their married, their relationship will be more passionate and romantic; they will want to travel together, special holidays, or give gifts, and their family atmosphere will be still very good, and the couple may have have the new babies. The single Taurus will be very lucky in relationship, but affairs may also be at the midst. So, they must keep an acute eyesight and distinguish the relationship. In 2024, Taurus may have some minor health problems, such as skin, respiratory and digestive problems. They must maintain a healthy living habit. This year, Taurus can also release stress in a very good way, such as listening to music, gathering with friends, traveling and sports. They should also keep a positive and optimistic mentality, which will be beneficial to their health. The constellation known as Cancer has its roots in many ancient civilizations, where it has been identified as various hard-shelled mythological creatures. In Egyptian belief, it was associated with the scarab, the symbol of immortality. The connection with the afterlife continues into Babylonian culture, where Cancer was thought to be the god that was the guide to the passage through the underworld and death.The Crab makes an appearance in Greek legend, with its notable part in the tale of Hercules battling the Hydra. Karkinos, the Crab, was sent by the goddess Hera, who was not a fan of Hercules, to distract him and give the Hydra an advantage. When Karkinos bites Hercules on the foot, he kills him by cracking his shell. As a reward for risking his life to do Hera's bidding, Karkinos is placed in the heavens, to shine for eternity. In the western tropical zodiac, Cancer season begins on June 21, commencing the Summer Solstice in the Northern Hemisphere. This is the time of year when the sun's heat and light are at its peak, with daylight outweighing the night hours. From this point, the days slowly begin to decrease toward the Autumn Equinox, representing the second seasonal pivot of the year.Cancer's connection with nurturance, sustenance, and rejuvenation is mirrored in the bounty of energy and resources in the Summer months.Cardinal ModeCancer is the second of the four cardinal signs of the zodiac, who all hold elemental energy of initiation and leadership at the beginning of the four seasons. Cancer season is the beginning of Summer, where the light and warmth are at their peak. This derivative, nurturing quality is the core of Cancer's core archetype. Water ElementRuled by the moon, Cancer's element is water, the second heavenly element, though by ancient astrologers to be the fluid, adaptive, yet a tangible form of matter. Water represents the moistening and cohering principle that binds and connects all forms of nature.Without it, nothing that takes a material form could "stick" together. Water fertilizes earth so that nature and creativity can incubate and bloom. Cancer's affinity for nurturance, protection and leadership in melding people into family units and all akin to the consolidating connectivity of the water element. In classical astrology, the moon was assigned rulership of Cancer exclusively. The moon is in the luminary of the night, a receptacle and reflector of the sun's vital rays, guiding us in the darkness. Classically, the moon was thought to be the protector of the earth, interceding between us and the bold, active, and divine rays of the other powerful planets.Like a mother bird breaking down food into a more palatable form, the moon filters the intensive cosmic rays for all life in her "sublunary realm" so that we are not overwhelmed or destroyed by their powers. One wonders if the ancients saw the moon's craters as evidence that she was shielding us from potential cosmic hits. These are where some of the maternal qualities of the moon were observed to be at work, giving the moon in Cancer a special potency and divinity while at home in the Crab's sign.In the watery and protective sign of cancer, the moon can be as nurturing, emotive, and as intuitive of a force on the psyche and in the cosmos, as she likes to be. Regardless of the gender they identify with, those with the moon in Cancer will have a strong maternal, protective, emotive, and psychic energy in their core nature.Detriment of SaturnRuled by the moon, Cancer is in polarity with the cardinal earth sign Capricorn. Ruled by Saturn, Capricorn is cool, reserved, and strongly pragmatic. Being innately practical, at times stern, and mistrustful of vulnerability, Saturn-ruled Capricorn is a contrast to moon-ruled Cancer, whose insular and emotive instincts wire this archetype to be innately maternal and intuitive.Imagine a stern and unyielding Saturn in Cancer's soft, sentimental, and somewhat dreamy world. Saturn in the moon's sign would have to somehow compensate for this detriment, "be" somewhat out of place in this fluid environment.This may simply mean that natives born with this placement tend to have protective barriers around their emotions, or they may blend Saturn's judgement with Cancer's emotions, to be innately defensive and protective. It can have a Saturnian effect on the moods of these natives, making them prone to bouts of sadness and depression.This placement could also cause the native to place many rules and restrictions around themselves when it comes to their emotional engagements with others, and they may be prone to holding long grudges if they are hurt or crossed. Saturn compensating in Cancer may also present a strong instinct to protect others who are vulnerable, in their communities, or their societies at large.Exaltation of JupiterJupiter, the planet of belief, benevolence, and opportunity, has a specially exalted place in Cancer. Here, the Jupiterian powers of mentorship and affirmation blend uniquely well with Cancer's nurturing and protective qualities.This placement can combine to produce great teachers, parents, spiritual guides, and may amplify the Cancerian psychic abilities. Depending on how or where Jupiter in the moon's sign is placed in a person's birth chart, it can be a very lucky placement that offers prosperity and privileges to the native, that in their generosity they will no doubt share with others.Fall of MarsMars was said to be exalted in Capricorn by classical astrologers, where he can uniquely and constructively express his tenacious martial powers.When in the opposite sign of Cancer, Mars was said to be in his fall, which may not pose as strong of an adaptive challenge as a detriment might, yet still puts the planetary force somewhat out of its comfort zone. It points to ways that Mars' typically aggressive and divisive energies present as somewhat volatile, in that they often vacillate between being over or underutilized in the life of the native.As a sign, Cancer promotes soothing, nurturing, and healing, where Mars promotes inflaming, confronting, and competing, so the watery influence of Cancer may squelch the abilities to be assertive and take initiative.In the interest of not hurting others, Mars in Cancer natives may suppress, or deny their anger, causing it to fester and come out in untimely ways. The insight that natives with this placement gain from their charts are focused on forming and maintaining family ties. They are naturally empathic, sentimental, and home-loving by nature.StrengthsThe primary Cancer strengths can be found in their kind, giving, and sympathetic natures. Always ready to host, and set a table, they can be counted on to feed any one for friends, family, and any weary traveler that stays in their home. With strong empathic powers and talents for healing, Cancer natives can sense what others need, often long before they have articulated it themselves.The famous sideways walk of the Crab can be observed in the cautious way a Cancer native enters a space or social gathering. They tend to come in quietly, carefully surveying their surroundings, before they open and reveal their whole selves. This protective instinct makes Cancerians good at reading the emotional tone in a room, helping them anticipate danger or crisis early. There is always something familiar about those born under the sign of the Crab, and those with this sign rising, especially, give people the uncanny feeling they have met them before. This quality has roots in this archetype's connection to nurturing and building a home, often making people instantly feel at home with them.The ease, familiarity, and trust they inspire allow those who meet them to open up in quickly, saying to the Cancerian "I feel like I could tell anything" or "It's like I've known you my whole life." This uncanny quality serves the Crab natives well in their roles and professions, which usually have some healing or nurturing aspect to them. Cancer natives are usually steadfast and loyal, and once you have been accepted into their hearts, and inner circle, they will be your friend for life.No matter what gender Cancerians identify with, they often have a strong matriarchal presence in their homes, communities, and workplaces. Cancer natives have great sympathy for the underdog and the downtrodden, and though usually quiet and peaceable, their claws come out when protecting the vulnerable. They are also vigilant about protecting themselves, learning the importance of strong emotional and energetic boundaries from a young age.WeaknessesSome potential weaknesses in the cancer archetype are rooted in their great strengths. Though they love creating a comfortable home, they can become so emotionally and sentimentally connected to their space and their belongings, that it's hard to let go and make changes when needed. Their natural giving tendencies, if unbalanced, can cause natives from this sign to over-indulge in their social work, and also in roles as therapists and counselors. The Crab's mystic side can emerge in the role of the local psychic, or medium, as they offer insight and comfort to spiritual seekers. Those born under the sign of the Crab delight in setting a table and creating a comfortable dining atmosphere. Food and everything to do with it is a natural vacation path for the Cancer native. They may enjoy keeping this passion on an intimate, home-based level, or it could take form in roles as fine food merchants, restaurateurs, chefs, caterers, bakers, or even as servers or hosts.All signs have their creative side, and this can take many forms for the Cancerian. We may find it alive in talents for interior design, as well as home decorating.These natives may also be drawn to water sports like swimming and surfing, and they would make dependable protective lifeguards. When exploring overall compatibility, it's important to consider more than the sun sign, as the rising sign, moon and other planetary connections will tell the whole story. That being said, Cancer natives will tend to blend best with water signs and earth signs; and may need to work harder on relationships with fire signs and air signs.Fire signsAll of zodiac signs, sensitive Cancer may find the volatile and impulsive fire signs the trickiest to relate to.Although Cancer's shy and cautious nature may benefit from collaborating with fiery warmth and enthusiasm, Mars-ruled Aries, especially, may be too brash and headstrong to relax and settle down with Cancer. Both are cardinal signs, so they may wrestle for leadership and control of their shared environment. Aries may have impatient and harsh words at the moment, but Cancer will never forget the burn.Sagittarius and Cancer share nothing modally or elementarily in common. This pairing is unusual and may have many challenges set against it to truly work. Cancer is sentimental and home-based, where Sagittarius is restless and roving, so they may disagree on time together. Cancer natives will not care for Sagittarius for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically long-term. Leo is ruled by the outgoing sun, and Cancer is ruled by the insular moon, possibly creating an "opposites attract" connection. This polarity is more likely to keep them forever as divided as the day is from the night. Air signsAir signs are speedy, swift, and social, which could be a breath of fresh air in Cancer's reflective and somewhat moody world, but intuitively Cancer may find the air signs a bit too breezy and changeable to truly depend on.Gemini and Cancer do not share much in common, with the Twins being intensely social, and Cancer being intensely private. The Crab may often find they are soothing Gemini's frayed nerves and may have a hard time keeping up with their mental chatter. But the two may tire of this dynamic after a while and will need to respect each other's different rhythms to last long-term.Libra and Cancer can work well together, with Venusian and lunar natures blending more easily than with other air signs. Libra's social and artistic world doesn't seem to overlap much with Cancer's private life, but they could come together as co-hosts of beautiful and intimate dinner parties. Eventually, Cancer will need to withdraw and will seem moodier than upbeat Libra. They would need to learn how to navigate these emotional differences.Aquarius with Cancer is potentially a challenging match. Cancer is ruled by the nurturing moon, and Aquarius is ruled by stern and remote Saturn. Though Aquarius may benefit from Cancer's attention and care, it may not be natural for them to reciprocate what Cancer truly needs to feel secure. They are perhaps too different on an emotional level to achieve lasting intimacy without conscious, intentional work.Water SignsWater signs match Cancer's vulnerability and emotional intelligence with the greatest affinity. There seems to be a psychic, intuitive current running between them that transcends words.Cancer with Cancer is a natural, peas in a pod type of fit, where they share many similar values and needs. They easily make a home together and agree on feeling out major life decisions. A potential pitfall presents if they are too close and struggle for control, or if they are having an intense mood at the same time. They are likely have enough caring and empathy between them to work it out.Pisces broose Cancer's vulnerabilities by bringing the spiritve of idealism and philosophical ideas to the relationship. This is a romantically

What are the zodiac sign symbols. What are the different zodiac sign symbols. What are star sign symbols. What symbols represent the zodiac sign scorpio. Zodiac symbols. Zodiac signs ♈♉♊♋♌♍♎♏♐♑♒♓. What are the 12 zodiac sign symbols. What are all the zodiac sign symbols. What zodiac sign symbols the earth.